PROVISIONAL SPECIFICATION.

An Improved Bread.

We, WILLIAM JOHN ROBINSON JOSEPH ROBINSON and ROBERT ROBINSON, trading as Robert Robinson & Sons, of Annan, Dumfries-shire, Oatmeal Manufacturers, do hereby declare the nature of this invention to be as follows:—

This invention relates to the preparation of a new bread which we call oat bread, the main ingredients of which are flour and oats. The oats we prefer to use are those prepared by our process, and known in the market as rolled Provost oats.

We have prepared oat-bread from the following ingredients, and in the following proportions, although it will be understood that we do not confine ourselves to the exact proportions and the ingredients may if desired be altered viz.:

- 2½ lbs. flour.
- 1 lb. oats (preferably rolled Provost oats).
- 2 ozs. lard.
- 1 oz. sugar.
- ½ oz. salt.

These ingredients are mixed together, and undergo substantially the same processes as are ordinarily used in the preparation and baking of bread.

Dated this 10th day of July 1897.
